

You are the declarer in 3NT. The lead is the K Hrts and you must decide whether to win this lead ( and if you do ) what to play next.

State what you play to trick 1 . Only if you decide to win state also what you play to trick 2.

13) (declarer)	(dummy)	14) (declarer)	(dummy)
KQ2	7654	AK2	QJ109
AJ3	52	A43	652
AK32	QJ109	AQJ3	K1098
K43	A52	432	65

15) (declarer)	(dummy)	16) (declarer)	(dummy)
KQ2	A654	K652	QJ109
A73	52	A4	10987
Q832	AJ109	AQJ3	K10
K43	A52	432	A85

Again you are in 3NT. The lead is the 6 diamonds.
Which diamonds do you expect to play from dummy and your hand to the first trick ?

17) (declarer)	(dummy)
KJ3	AQ87
AJ3	872
A82	K107
QJ76	1032

Your partner is a thoughtful player { well she takes a long time before she leads anyway}; after a veritable eternity the 7 clubs is revealed as her lead against 3NT.
Dummy plays the 3 Clubs ; which club do you play to trick 1 ?

18)	(dummy)
	KQ4
	A987	{you}
	765	A632
	AJ3	Q43
		932
7 Clubs led ----->		K95

In 6Sp you receive the lead of the 2 Hrts. You know all the arguments about players making attacking leads against suit slams and it is certainly possible that leader has led away from their K Hrts. Do you intend to rely on that and finesse at trick 1 or do you have a better plan ?

19)	(declarer)	(dummy)
	KQJ10	987643
	65	AQ
	AQJ	K2
	AKQJ	1098